

Amanda Hoffsis performs dual roles within The Ohio State University. She acts as the Senior Director of Planning and Real Estate for The Ohio State University. Amanda's university responsibilities include maintaining the One University Framework Plan and advancing its implementation on all six campuses, facilitating the development of the annual capital planning process, and overseeing all of the university land and facility holdings. Amanda is also the President for Ohio State's nonprofit affiliate, Campus Partners. In this role Amanda leads Campus Partners' development work throughout the University District neighborhoods, including the investments in Weinland Park.